EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

NIH Postdoctoral Fellowship at the University of Wisconsin-Madison

The Center for Demography and Ecology, University of Wisconsin-Madison, announces an NICHD/NIH Postdoctoral Fellowship in Demography beginning in September 2008. We welcome applicants with training in demography and ecology whose specialized needs would be served by residence at the Center; or scholars trained in social sciences, such as history, economics, sociology, anthropology, etc., who seek advanced training and research experience in demography and ecology. The position carries a stipend varying by years of relevant postdoctoral experience, beginning at $36,996, some travel expenses, and full health and insurance benefits. For more information about the Center and its research faculty, please visit our website at www.ssc.wisc.edu/cde/ Applications should be submitted by June 15, 2008, but the review committee will continue to consider applications beyond that date until an award is made.
